T ns Each Week

LONDON, July 28.-The Daily News, analyzing British shipping losses as a result of the submarine war, says: "Since Feb. 18, when weekly returns relating to the unlimited submarine campaign began to be published, we have lost a total of 740 vessels, of which 143 were fishing craft, 162 under 1,600 tons and 435 of 1,600 tons or more. The absence of tonnage statistics renders these figures to a large extent meaningless, but taking the average of the larger classes at about 4,500 tons, and also an average of $00 tons for those below 1,600, we get the following tonnage loss for the twenty-two weeks from Feb. 18 to July 22: 435 ships over 1,600 tons, 1,957,500 tons; 162 ships under 1,600 tons, 129,600 tons. Total, 2,087,100 tons.

"This represents an average of 94,868 tons a week and 4,933,136 tons for a year. This is well under German expectations, but at the same time a very great deal more an we can afford, and it must be ememb red it does not include any ships lost by our allies or by
